

Dr. Mohammad bin Abdul Karim Al-Issa

Dr. Mohammad bin Abdul Karim Al-Issa is Secretary General of the Muslim World League, the international, non-governmental Islamic organization based in the Holy City of Makkah whose goal is to clarify the true message of Islam. Dr. Issa lectures in Saudi Arabia and abroad about Islamic Jurisprudence and Islamic Judicial Rulings, and lectures on comparative legal and religious studies around the world... about the Comparisons and Contrasts between Islamic Jurisprudence and Constitutions, Laws, and Judicial Precedence in other countries.

Inaugural Meeting of the IMCTC Ministers of Defense Council

Dr. Mohammad bin Abdul Karim Al-Issa: Ideology

November 26, 2017

In the Name of Allah, the Most Beneficent, the Most Merciful

And peace and blessings be upon the Prophet, his household and companions.

His Royal Highness Prince Mohammed bin Salman bin Abdulaziz, Crown Prince, Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Defense of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia,

Excellencies and Distinguished Guests,

May the Peace, Mercy and Blessing of Allah be Upon You,

I am honored to be among you today, in this blessed country, the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, which adopts today new perspectives in all domains and strong aspirations for a prosperous future for the good of its people and for the good of the Arab and Islamic nations.

I would like to express my compliments to the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia for its leadership role in the Islamic Military Counter Terrorism Coalition, as well as for its great efforts and service in fighting extremist terrorist ideology.

I am honored to be among the speakers in this extraordinary and historic meeting of the Ministers of Defense of the Countries of the Islamic Military Counter Terrorism Coalition; specifically, to discuss the role of the media in combating extremist terrorist ideology, and inaugurate the work of the Coalition in the Communications domain (...). Hosting this meeting is not only exceptional because we Muslims are a community of peace, justice, moderation, and tolerance; but also, because we are at the forefront of fighting those who would spread fear and intimidation, and kill in the name of our Islamic religion.

It has become a reality of our generation amidst the repercussions of a fourth industrial revolution, that nowadays wars are fought through media and communication channels. As a result, the Communications Domain has become a domain of confrontation, little different from the traditional military and security domains.

Your Royal Highness, Crown Prince,

Distinguished guests,

Over the past months, the spineless terrorist gangs have suffered major defeats and setbacks. However, the war is not yet over, especially in the Media and Communication Domains. We will continue to fight, in order to strengthen our societies against the threats of obscurantist ideology, and we will leverage our media to be an effective tool enabling our societies to fight extremism and terrorism.

The war on terror and the confrontation of extremist terrorist ideology in all its aspects is a continuous process and an essential battle. The comprehensive strategy, which was devised by your brothers in Jordan to combat obscurantist ideology, and translated the vision of His Majesty King Abdullah II Ibn Al. This strategy was, focused to a large extent on the Communications and Ideology domains, requiring time and effort to raise awareness about obscurantist ideology as well as promote the true path of Islam, all in an innovative and sustainable manner.

As Arab and Islamic countries, we need to intensify coordination and cooperation amongst one another, and share expertise and experiences, and build on the achieved successes to set up effective mechanisms that contribute to combating terrorism on the ideological and intellectual levels, as well as counter the allegations, myths, and misconceptions that conflict with religious and human values.

Professional, enlightened, and balanced media must have the upper hand and the utmost impact. It must surpass all the means used by the enemies of humanity and their media to undermine our identity and our history.

Perhaps one of the most important roles that various media outlets in the Arab and Islamic countries should assume is to refute the false allegations and the major fabrications that terrorist groups use to justify their global crimes. In addition to refuting these allegations, the role of the media should be to proactively broadcast and produce truthful content that cherishes the true values of Islam, with all its lofty human dimensions. The Media should sow these seeds in the minds of young people and future generations, to make them protective shields for their societies against plans aimed at destroying the Nation and eradicating its history.

The responsibility for refuting the false allegations and spreading positive content falls on all of us, especially given global connectivity and the great technological development of modern media and the explosion of social networking. The latter is exploited by terrorist groups to spread their poisonous ideas, recruit supporters to their extremist tendencies, and wrongly attribute these ideas and tendencies to our Islamic religion.

We should acknowledge that we were taken by surprise by the scale of the sophisticated use of the media and social networking by the terrorist organizations. This has challenged us to respond swiftly by harnessing advanced expertise in search of effective and convincing mechanisms to reach all segments of society and protect them from the extreme content produced by extremist, terrorist gangs.

Your Royal Highness,

Distinguished guests,

Our Jordanian experience in dealing with the media and the various communication channels, which represent one of the most important fronts in fighting terrorism, is based on a three-level approach. First, the political and professional level, which defines the frameworks, policies and interactions to be used in dealing with all forms of media in an open and professional way. This framework aims to promote the professional media that are seeking the truth rather than distorting it. Second, the legal level, which is applied through legislation and regulation, protects societies and establishes clear legal controls on abuse of media. Finally, there is the security level, which relates to all aspects of media that infringe on the national security of a country, such as diffusing hate speech, promoting extremist ideas and recruiting terrorists. The interaction at all three levels has proven to be an efficient way to transform the media so that instead of being a vulnerable weakness, media becomes an agent of prevention and immunization of societies against extremism.

Your Royal Highness,

Ladies and Gentlemen,

The challenge awaiting us today is historic and unprecedented. We need today, more than ever, to utilize non-traditional means that can contribute towards defeating extremist ideas. The media and Social Networks should stop being a weak point that can be exploited by those who want to undermine our societies, spreading division, strife and fanaticism, as well as foment chaos to make our security and stability more fragile.

Hence the importance of creating a conscious and educated younger generation that believes and trusts in its future, and doesn't bend towards negative or dark ideas. This means a brighter future, a more proficient society and a more cohesive community.

In conclusion, allow me to reiterate my greetings and appreciation to His Royal Highness Prince Mohammed bin Salman bin Abdulaziz, Crown Prince, may God preserve him, and my sincere appreciation for this noble gathering of the sons of the nations that came voluntarily in their endeavor to defend the history, the present and the future of our countries.

All hope rests with God to enable all of us to achieve our goals and aspirations, which will serve the Arab and Islamic nations.

Bismillah Irahman Iraheem

His Royal Highness Crown Prince Mohammad Bin Salman, Minister of Defense of Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, Honorable Defense Ministers, Distinguished guests, respected officers, ladies and gentlemen

Assalam-o-Alaikum

I will begin by thanking the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia for hosting this important event. It is indeed a privilege to address this august gathering.

Ladies and Gentlemen

We are all present here today in recognition that the biggest challenge to peace and stability in the 21st century especially for the Muslim World is confronting the most dangerous phenomenon of terrorism. Terrorist organizations have distorted the notion of Jihad and desperately try to cloak their horrendous activities in the legitimacy of Islam. Through ruthless terrorist acts they threaten international peace to further their agendas.

In the last three years approximately 8,000 major terrorist attacks occurred worldwide, resulting in more than 90,000 deaths and thousands of innocent people injured. They were concentrated in the Middle East, south Asia and Africa. Al Qaeda and Daesh along with their affiliates were responsible for more attacks than any other group.

Over 70% of terrorism related deaths occurred in four countries that are Iraq, Afghanistan, Nigeria and Pakistan. These countries since last many years are paying a very heavy price in blood and treasure. In Iraq we are finally seeing improvement with recapture of Iraqi land from Daesh. Pakistan has turned the tide against terrorism and is fighting this menace successfully.

Fight against terrorism has become extremely complex and resource intense. Traditional forces and law enforcement agencies have to fight a faceless enemy demanding high level of preparedness and continuous vigilance. While individual nations have built capabilities in various fields, there is lack of synergy in the Muslim World in terms of institutionalized mechanisms.

Realizing the need for a comprehensive strategic approach against terrorism, His Majesty the custodian of the two Holy Mosques, King Salman bin Abdul Aziz Al Saud, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, has taken a historic and bold initiative of formulating this counter Terrorism Coalition.